Note: Age class eligibility:

A rider may only ride an age appropriate age class after their birthday. No points will be added to their new class if transferring mid-season. A rider who begins the season in one age class but ages out mid-season, may complete the season series in the class they started in.

The Class Review Committee is a volunteer group of experienced riders committed to ensuring safe, fair and competitive racing in all classes. Rider promotion will be based on independent member review of riders and group consensus on which riders and how many will be promoted up a class at year end. Promotion decisions will consider improvement of skill, and the number of class promotions may vary. Factors used to promote riders are: Number of wins, points, lap times, observation of racing skills, and an effort to balance the number of racers between the different classes. A class promotion may also occur during the season if circumstances demand it.

If a rider wishes to change their primary class up or down, they may write an appeal to the class review committee for consideration. The appeal should include reasoning for the request that the CRC can base their decision on.
